Virginia Prince Papers. Transvestia. News Clippings.

Processed by Special Collections staff.

Finding Guide by Tony Gardner, Curator, April 2008.

(4 ms boxes; 2 linear ft.)

Call number: HQ77.9 .V47 1930

History

As editor and writer for Transvestia, Virginia Prince saved newspaper clippings, magazine articles, cartoons, and photographs on cross dressing that appeared in the print media. They date from the 1930s to 1970s. She subscribed to a news service which scanned a number of publications across the country and sent clippings from them to her. The clippings file served as a resource for her magazine Transvestia.

Provenance

Virginia Prince donated the clippings files to Special Collections in 1988/89. They are part of the Transvestia files donated at the same time.

Organization

The clippings were stored loosely in boxes and were received in no specific order. Many are undated and don't identify the publication from which they were cut. They are arranged here into five series: I. People; II. Advertisements, Cartoons, and Newspaper Photographs; III. Dated News Clippings; IV. Topical News Clippings (undated); V. News Clippings (dated) A-L and M-Z. Special Collections staff photocopied all of the clippings on to Permalife buffered paper. The original newsprint has been discarded.
